Individual congregations were encouraged and invited to do historic research on their origins and many did, learning that slaves and slavery were integrally woven into the building up of congregations as well as the diocese, itself. A cleric wrote a play based on real historic inaction on the part of Diocesan Convention in 1860. A resolution denouncing slavery was tabled at that time. In 2019 that resolution was taken off the table and voted through convention. There is much ongoing activity and study even during this time of pandemic. The Reparations Committee is currently engaged in sponsoring an online webinar meeting on five successive Friday evenings titled "Knee on My Neck" - and attended by the maximum number of 200 people. The Diocese has also committed 1.1 million dollars to Reparations. |
